Hello Mrs./Ms. Abigail

Congratulations on your wedding and this is a nice invitation. However, I believe you have the wrong email address.

Best wishes,

David Adams

Dear Mr. Adams,

I appreciate your wishes however, it's really important that you respond with a phone number so that we can call to confirm your reservation for our wedding.

Thank you for your patience,
Abigail

Hey White!

I need a favor. I got this really weird email today and I got this weird hunch about it, could you track it down or do something for me or whatever you can do with it maybe?

Hey Adams!

I don't think this can count as a favor, but a debt.

Here are just a few things I found.

1. In the email, the address was "seaorg" in the name which is formally known as Sea Org. It's almost like the branch of Scientology (yea, it's this one) of the priesthood, like where the top guys rule from and live.
2. I then typed in your mysterious emailer's name into Google, "Abigail Graham" along with "Scientology" and the first thing that came up was a missing girl named Jenny Graham. You see, the Graham family is one of the big players in the prosthetic game in Hollywood - you may of heard about them, Graham Gore. Anyways, they joined Scientology almost thirty years ago. So, they are kind of invested in this group.
3. The family had actually donated a large sums of money to the Scientology charities and there's a photo of them with the wedding. Speaking of weddings, their vows are ridiculous: "Now, (groom's name), girls need clothes and food and tender happiness and frills, a pan, a comb, perhaps a cat. All caprice if you will, but still they need them. Hear well, sweet (bride's name), for promise binds. Young men are free and may forget. Remind him then that you may have necessities and follies, too."
4. Apparently, one of their daughters named Jenny went missing a few weeks ago, but I really think that is no consequence. There was this article that came up a couple weeks ago about how the source of the article was sharing their experience with a sexual assault from one of the high ranking members.

I don't know how far this goes, David, but I really think this Abigail really needs help.

Email back as soon as you get this,

White

Hold on man, I am going to contact the director of our department. I think he worked with Leah Remini in the past with her documentary.

Hold tight,

Subject: Source Information

Hi Greg,

I think I have something for a story and I might be right up for alley. I got this weird vague email from an address that I was able get connected to an address from an Scientology account. I know you were an producer for that documentary with Leah Remini and I think I might have a whistle blower on our hands. My source was using wedding invitation emails to reach out and has a family deeply ingrained into Hollywood and has donated a lot of its money to Scientology. My source also has a missing sibling who might be connected (or the victim) of a sexual assault by a leading member of Scientology.

I think I got something here.

Thoughts?

Hi David,

1. I did work on that documentary with Leah Remini and the things that she was talking about is wild and that assault you mentioned doesn't surprise me. Girls are getting married off young, but also, they're forced to have abortions all the time. So, when you have this young woman (your source's sister) reported a sexual assault and going missing. She may have gone to the Hole.
2. The Hole is essentially a concentration camp in which people are sent to be re-indoctrinated and punished for breaking the rules of Scientology. People are being forced to eat slop, doors and windows were barred at all times, and round the clock guarding. People are tortured in sick mind games: One of them is where a woman was beaten until she confessed she was a lesbian. Another claimed that water was poured all over them as an air conditioner was blowed on them for hours.
3. I do agree with you, you're onto something. Do whatever you can to get more information and get your source out of that environment as soon as you can. You may not have much time left.

Good luck,
Greg Miller

Hello Abigail,

Just realized that I had meant to give you my other email and not my work email. My bad! But while I got you here, let me send you my info and we can get started on those confirmation details.

Best wishes,
David Adams

Adams: Hello

Graham: Hello?

Adams: Is this about the invitation?

Graham: Indeed it is! Thank you for calling about that darn wedding information. Thank you so much for your response!

Adams: Is your husband nearby? I'd love to catch up

Graham: No, Grandpa.

Adams: Is your party planner nearby?

Graham: No, Grandpa

Adams: It is just us, then?

Graham: Yes

Adams: Alright Abigail, we're going to ease into this and you can just speak in yes' and nos. Is this alright?

Graham: Of course! I would love it if your kids would come!

Adams: Read you loud and clear. Are you a part of Sea Org or known as Scientology?

Graham: Yes

Adams: Are you contacting us for help in your release?

Graham: Uhhh, yes I believe so.

Adams: Okay Abigail. Do you have any family members already detained from the group? Anyone you can go to after this?

Graham: There are going to be a few drinks free of charge, but you will need to bring some of your own.

Adams: Abigail, how many people are on the outside?

Graham: 3 drinks is our limit, but it may only be 1 full size drink instead, I'm not sure yet.

Adams: Thanks Abigail, are they family?

Graham: Yes, I believe so.

Adams: Okay, Abigail. What do you think you may need to escape?

Graham: I don't understand, we have a few things on the registry, but there's some wiggle room for you.

Adams: Money?

Graham: Not many kids, but yes there will be some

Adams: Transportation?

Graham: Yes, we would love a new mixer!

Adams: Any shelter?

Graham: Preferably the newest model, but anything would work.

Adams: Would you want any i.ds? Aliases?

Graham: Yes! I have been dying for one of those!

Adams: Alright Abigail...I am going to ask this once to solidify our involvement, do you have any information regarding a place we outsiders know as the "Hole"?

Graham: Y-Yes that would work as well

Adams: Okay Abigail, you're doing a great job, just keep calm, you have to be brave right now...tell me the date of the wedding again.

Graham: How could you forget! I'm joking! Alright, you got a pen and paper?

Adams: Right here Abigail...keep going.

Graham: Okay, May 31st is the big day! But make sure to come into town on the 28th to get settled in and everything. Just be sure not to come late at night, it can get really cold...

Adams: I read you loud and clear, Abigail. May 28, we'll arrive and get prepared for you and we'll organize a safe and discrete route to pick you up, by dusk on the 31st. Is this correct?

Graham: Yep! Make sure to get it on your calendar!

Adams: Will do Abigail. I'll contact you once we've established some finalities, I'll get back to you soon, I promise you this Abigail. We're coming to get you out of there.

Graham: Are you sure this wouldn't be too much travel? I know how your knees are...

Adams: My knees are bad, but not too bad to get you, alright?

Graham: Okay then.

Adams: I'll talk to you soon, Abigail

Graham: See you soon, Grandpa! Love you!

Adams: Bye Abigail

Graham: Bye

Subject: Confirmation Details for the Big Day

Hello Abigail,

We've worked out our schedules and we'll make sure to get an extra day off work for Dorene and I in order to make our flight. We are also bringing our boys Jared, Jason, and Luke along to bother - I mean support you on your big day :). Is there anything else we should know about before leaving?

Can't wait!

Hey Abigail,

Just checking in with you to make sure you got my last email. Are there any details we're missing?

Thanks!
